

The background of the image is a dark, almost black, space. It is filled with numerous thin, glowing lines that create a sense of depth and motion. These lines are primarily white and light blue, with some darker blue and green ones interspersed. They form a complex, organic pattern that resembles a star field or a microscopic view of a fluid. A single, thin vertical white line is positioned on the left side, roughly one-third of the way from the bottom to the top.
